

My Impressions about the Mobility in Latvia

My leaving in Latvia was and it is still a wonderful experience for me, which once appear in life. With the help of my three lovely teachers, I arrived there, being welcomed with the open arms by my host family. This host family consisted in four members and my host friend's father was left in another country. It didn't matter, because the fun was just starting.

The next day, on Tuesday, I went to school. Everything was fascinating in the Latvian partner school. I have participated to an interactive Math lesson, where I was awarded with a box of chocolates for my knowledge. A gorgeous thing was the fact that all the pupils were united and friendly.

Wednesday was a tiring day for us, but I think it was worth it due to the fact we all made together the so tasty candies. This enjoyed me a lot.

On Thursday, we were together into a divine forest, where we created artworks using materials from nature. My classmate and I were helped by our host partner pupils. In my opinion, all our artworks were very beautiful. At a Bread Museum we were warmly welcomed by a funny woman who taught us how to make bread and who prepared for us a little party, where we danced a lot and we became more and more friendly.

On Friday we were on stage almost all day. Just when I got used to the scene, everything was over. A very great joy for me was the moment when we received the mobility certificates. I was feeling very proud for that.

Saturday was starting to be, indeed, a very sad day for me as the departure was approaching but happy because I could see again my family. I have been with the partner pupils from Turkey and the girls in Latvia to a small picnic, where we played, too. After this free time I was together Dita, my host partner, and Elina, Dita's best friend, who became my friend too, to a swimming pool, sauna and jacuzzi.

On Sunday, it was a very difficult day for me. I laughed a bit and we say each other good-bye. This experience will remain always in my heart and I hope that the friendship between me and Dita will last forever.
